A BIG THANK YOU - to everyone who donated, worked or bought at the auction on April 30th at the Community Center. It was a big success. Almost $2000.00 was made. A special thank you goes out to Don Waddington and wife Betty and daughter Penny for auctioneering and clerking. Our next fund raiser is scheduled for October 22, a Craft Fair. Rent your table early! Thanks again for supporting the center.

TEDDY BEAR LEARNING CENTER
BIRTHDAY PARTY

On August 19, 1984, Penny Miller & Betty Waddington opened a Christian Day care later named Teddy Bear Learning Center in the upstairs of the Waddington house.

The first child to attend TLC was Tara Hennigar. Other children soon followed along and the regulars at that time became David Holmes, Johnny & Joanna Norgaard, Nicki Petersburg and Jason Gordon.

As the day care grew it was soon moved to its own quarters in the basement. During the past ten years over 100 children have attended as drop ins, part time or full time.

Children come from different towns with drop ins from as far away as Colorado, Des Moines, and Minneapolis with regulars from Fertile, Hanlontown, Clear Lake, Forest City, Kensett, Joice and Northwood.

At one time there were too many children so both homes held the summer kids with the boys at Penny's and the girls at Betty's.

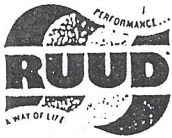

Pre-school has at times been open to other children than those attending the day care.

Children who have attended since birth are Alex Petersburg, Amanda, Jason & Angela Thompson, Matthew Haugen, Rachel & Mitchell Tuttle & Zackery Lundgren. Nicki Petersburg has been with us all ten years as she still comes after school and during vacations.

At Christmas time the children put on a full hour program for parents and grandparents. Each year in June is a pot luck supper with pre-school graduation followed by fun and games for the parents & grandparents.

This June 25th we will celebrate our 10th birthday with a FUN CARNIVAL. All children who have attended the day care will be invited. So mark your calendars, kids, and plan to come and have a night of fun. You must come with an adult.

Thank you so much to the Fertile Garden Club for the planter of beautiful flowers I received as a door prize at the annual plant sale.

The Bells

Neil L. Kuns

October 28, 1993

By the time I was ten the concept of death had slowly started to dawn upon me. Not that I thought about it being a reality for myself or for any member of my immediate family, but a practice of the church west of the school house caused us all to think. The third and fourth grade classes met in the west classroom on the middle floor of the building, right across from the "Norwegian" church, as it was called by the kids (I didn't learn it was a Lutheran church until much later). They held their funerals in the church building. After the eulogy, the singing and the final prayer, the concluding event was the tolling of the bell as the casket with the body of the deceased was taken to the waiting hearse. Morticians didn't think of calling them "funeral coaches" until much later.

The bell was not rung by "wheeling" it as was on Sunday mornings to awaken slumbering parishioners and summon them to worship. That ringing had a joyous sound (one might possibly call it appealing) even if it did shake a person from his dreams. The bell was rung by pulling a rope attached to the clapper. This was done slowly, solemnly, and one time for each year of the recently departed's life. I remember counting the rings and being really impressed when they numbered seventy or eighty or more. We always asked for whom the bell tolled. When it was some farmer or his wife we thought about all those hard years milking cows and ploughing the black Iowa soil, and we thought about not having to do it anymore. Unless the deceased was some relative of a classmate it all seemed quite remote, even though it was happening right next door.

There was another bell in the school house. It was brass, wall-mounted, and just down the hall outside our classroom door. Most of the time this was the "tardy bell", rung by Les Lindquist, the janitor, at the time classes were to start for the day. Anyone who entered the room after the bell rang was "late", and this would be noted on his report card at the end of the term. Whether the bell had a pleasant or unpleasant sound depended on which side of the door one happened to be when it sounded.

On rare occasions, once or twice a year, the bell would ring not just once but repeatedly, and quickly. Everyone knew this was a fire drill, and that we would get to exit the building using the fire escape. This tubular chute had entrance doors on the middle and top floors. The second floor door was in our room, and it was fun to shoot the chute and to get out of class for the few minutes it took for everyone to evacuate the building.

It didn't dawn upon me until some time later that the church bell in the steeple and the tardy bell on the wall in the hall were not that different in their messages. One told us to get ready to depart, and the other reminded us of one who had already gone. One told us when we were too late, and the other when it was too late.

Whenever I return to my roots in Fertile I hear the bell of the Lutheran church and remember those funeral days when I was in the fourth grade. When I pass the school building I wonder whatever happened to the tardy bell. It would be good to hear it ring again.

A GREAT SATURDAY

Having made plans earlier in the week to take Mom (Doris Suby-Oswald) and Aunt Cora (Cora Suby-Jenkins) to the community auction in Fertile, I was right on schedule when I drove up in front of the Manor about 8:50 a.m.. We wanted to arrive early to look over the merchandise and have coffee and a roll before the big event. You know Norwegians cannot miss their morning coffee-lunch!

Well, if you've been to the auction before you remember that you hardly have time to examine what's for sale as you get so busy visiting. I have to admit that is truly the way it is for me.

There was a large array of donated items, gift certificates, and home baked goods when the auction started and we all started bidding for the "treasures" that looked appealing to us. Needless-to-say, I brought a few home myself along with some homemade bread.

It takes a concentrated effort by a lot of concerned people to organize such an event and these people are to be commended for their efforts. All the proceeds go to the operation of the Community Center (no, it is not the Senior Center, although the Senior Center is a part of the Community Center).

Every time I return to Fertile, and especially to the school and gym, it brings back lots of fun-filled memories of another time. Looking around you see the wear and tear that the years have brought to the building and there is never enough money to keep things repaired. On the positive side, you see the fellowship still going on and the pride in the community. I especially like to look at the gallery of graduates.

So after visiting, eating, and buying we were off for another trip down memory lane. I asked Mom and Aunt Cora if they'd like to return by the scenic route so we headed east out of Fertile on the river road. Even that has changed! Trying to recall who lived where is always difficult, but especially so when the farmsteads are vacant or completely gone (except for the outhouse on one place), but we did our best. We usually took that road to Mason City, but I hadn't been completely down it for years. Hungry hollow looked the same as did the Winnebago river and all the trees along it.

Where did the years go? Who ever thought that Mom and Aunt Cora would ever leave Fertile, but times change. They are both at the Manor (old Hanford Hotel) in Mason City. Destiny is what it was, as with all the apartments in that building they are right down the hall from each other up on the seventh floor.

THANK YOU to the organizers of the benefit auction, it was a great way to spend a Saturday!

Nothing improves your driving, like being followed by a Policeman.

Age is mostly a matter of mind if you don't mind it, it don't matter.

One of the most attractive things you can wear is a smile.

A small dish of water in oven while baking bread will keep it from getting a hard crust.

Pancakes will be fluffy and golden brown if griddle is rubbed with salt before heating.

Add  $\frac{1}{4}$  tsp ginger to yeast mixture and it will rise twice as fast.

Recipe

KEY LIME PIE

- 1 14 oz. can sweetened condensed milk
- 1 8 oz. cream cheese softened
- $\frac{3}{4}$  cup plus 2T lime juice
- $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. vanilla

1 9" graham crax crust

Place ingredients in blender, blend for 12 to 15 minutes. Pour in crust, chill for 8 hours.

Some diabetics use this without problems. Small piece of course.

The other day in the kitchen
I was cleaning our chairs
I found I needed my glasses
And of course they were upstairs.

So away up the stairs I started
My glasses I hoped to find
But half way up the stairway
I lost the rest of my mind.

What was I going up for?
I can't believe I forgot!
It seems to me that lately
I do that an awful lot!

I sat down determined to stay
Until my brain kicked into gear.
But I sat there so long that -
I also went numb in the rear!

I just sat and tried to remember
But I was very perplexed
Now that 2 parts of me were gone
I wondered what would go next?

Bob walked past me in the hallway
And he asked, "Why the big frown?"
I said, "Cause I can't remember
Was I going up or coming down?"
